Protect Employee Benefit Plan
Information from Cybercriminals

Julie Verrekia was recently featured on PICPA Podcast talking about protecting employee benefit plan information from Cybercriminals.

Social Security numbers.

Medical data. Financial information. The volume of personal information kept inside employee benefit plans is huge, and that is why these plans make such ripe targets for cybercriminals. It falls to employee benefit plan sponsors to make sure the bad guys are kept out. In a preview of "Cybersecurity for Benefit Plan Sponsors and Auditors," her column from the summer 2019 Pennsylvania CPA Journal, JulieAnn C. Verrekia, director of quality control for Torrillo & Associates LLP in Glen Mills, discusses techniques hackers use to get employee benefit plan information, resources for plan sponsors looking to strengthen their security, and why auditors of employee benefit plans have to stand ready to ward off would-be infiltrators.
